Excerpt from Two Little Wooden Shoes: A Sketch

Bebee sprang out of bed at daybreak. She was sixteen.

It seemed a very wonderful thing to be as much as that - sixteen - a woman quite.

A cock was crowing under her lattice - he said how old you are! - how old you are! - every time that he sounded his clarion.

She opened the lattice and wished him good-day, with a laugh. It was so pleasant to be woke by him and to think that no one in all the world could ever call one a child any more.

There was a kid bleating in the shed. There was a thrush singing in the dusk of the sycamore-leaves. There was a calf lowing to its mother away there beyond the fence. There were dreamy muffled bells ringing in the distance from many steeples and belfries where the city was; they all said one thing: "How good it is to be so old as that - how good, how very good!"
